

Self Worth: Knowing Your Self Worth, Believing Your Self Worth, Uncompromising Your Self Worth (Seasons Book 6)

Its important to note that this is not a 365 day devotion, daily scripture reading or daily spiritual vitamin that fluctuates with each passing day, but instead a series of devotions that will help us shed light on our season for what God intended it to be. For example, if we are dealing with a death of a loved one, we are not going to breeze through that season in twenty four hours, wake up and mask the grief with 10 steps to make a million dollars. Instead we will go through a period of grieving. In this example Im not suggesting that we should dwell in a place of grief but I am suggesting that we should heal in our time and not be forced or distracted into the next thing. Like obtaining wealth, grief is a process. This series of devotions come under the guise of PURPOSE from knowing that oftentimes our perception about where we are or what were going through is jaded because we arent properly interpreting the season were in. If Im honest, most of us have gone with the flow of the world for so long that we cant even recognize spiritual situations and seasons God strategically designed or allowed to take place because we are so focused on what society says about pain, hurt, rejection, trials, uncertainties, selfishness, selflessness, patience, spontaneity, growth and most important as it pertains to church and church folk what it means to be blessed. This is not a book of negativity or constant unpleasant circumstances but I will cover a few not so pleasant situations. Above, I chose to highlight just a few not so pleasant things we experience in life because those are the moments that have proven to be some of the most pivotal times of our journey. I purposely didnt list all the good things that come with life because none of us are in a rush to get away from those things that bring us pleasure. Its the not so good things in life that have us eager to forfeit the fire because we dont fully understand that in order to become fine china, we have to stay in the furnace long enough to fully develop and complete the process in a way that only God can perfectly hand craft. We (my mothers household) never had a china cabinet but Ive been over plenty of friends houses that do and only once can I remember somebody taking their best out of those cabinets and dining with guests. I could always tell that something extremely special needed to be taking place in order for those plates and other dining instruments to be brought down and used. I know some people that even have keys to their china cabinet as if to say something very valuable is bestowed there. It seems like who ever owned those plates wanted visitors to see it but never touch it. Im so glad God isnt that way. Instead, God saves his best for an appointed time to put on display. But I guarantee you that Gods best ALWAYS has a fire experience somewhere on their journey. It has been my experience that we (Baptist, Pentecostal, Charismatic, Apostolic, and many western religions) have marketed God from a materialistic lens in an effort to portray that if God isnt blessing our money, houses, cars and careers, then God isnt blessing us. This couldnt be further from the truth. This book will challenge you to not necessarily subscribe to every written word or revelation Ive had but will offer different insight about very real possibilities that have been experienced not only in modern day reality but also during A.D. (After Death) and B.C. (Before Christ) time periods. Whatever the case may be, I challenge you to observe your situation with spiritual eyes and ears as you read and meditate on these writings and most importantly, make the adjustments when necessary.
