

ONE MIND: NON-DUALITY NOTEBOOK: 2015

This is a diary of my day to day experience of the awakening of what the Tibetan Buddhists refer to as One Mind, a state of Samadhi, the Zen satori, enlightenment, otherwise known as Nirvana, Buddhahood, or Selfhood. Most of the perspective is from my study and a daily walk by the river, so that the One Mind is a sort of companion which makes me, the seer, look at the world differently. I call this a neutral view because there is no need to divide the observer from the observed, a dualistic attitude that obscures the holistic perception One Mind provides in harmony with what is, the suchness of being at-one, within and without as a whole.
