Or THE BRAVEST KNIGHTS OF THIS PRESENT BOOK. r I 0 encourage all valourous hearts, and to show them honourable examples, I John Froissart will begin to relate, after the documents and papers of master John le Bel, formerly canon of St. Lamberts, at Liege, as followeth: That whereas various noble personages have frequently spoken of the wars between France and England without knowing any thing of the matter, or being able to assign the proper reasons for them; I having perceived the right foundation of the matter, shall neither add nor omit, forget, corrupt, nor abridge my history; but the rather will enlarge it, that I may be able to point out and speak of each adventure from the nativity of the noble king Edward of England, who so potently reigned, and who was engaged in so many battles and perilous adventures, and other feats of arms and great prowess, from the year of grace 1326, when he was crowned in England. B 3 Although Although he, and also those who were with him in his battles and fortunate rencounters, or with his army when he was not there in person, which you shall hear as we go on, ought to be accounted right valiant; yet as of these there is a multitude, some should be esteemed supereminent. Such as the gallant king himself before named; the prince of Wales his son, the duke of Lancaster, sir Reginald lordCobham, sir Walter Manny of Hainault, knight, sir John Chandos, sir Fulke Harley, and many others who are recorded in this book for their worth and prowess: for in all the battles by sea or land, in which they were engaged, their valour was so distinguished that they should be esteemed heroes of highest renown--but without disparagement to those with whom they served. In France also ...
